Re: Mac Order Requisition ADTC-8-0071956

The ATC Digital Design Program has historically used the Apple Macintosh computer platform as an instructional tool. This system is the recognized technological standard for the industry that we are preparing our students to enter.

Our current Macintosh computers are rapidly approaching functional obsolescence, as they are becoming increasingly unable to adequately run the latest course related software. With the assistance of the Office of Technical and Career Education we are now moving to replace our existing equipment.

It should be noted that Apple restricts sales to educational customers as a sole source. Should you have any further questions regarding the requisition please, let me know.
