2023-2024 Pupil/Teacher Ratios for Elementary Schools Excluding and Including Resource Personnel

The Virginia Standards of Quality requires each school board to report to the public annually the actual pupil/teacher ratios in elementary school classrooms by school for the current school year, no later than December 31. The Virginia Standards of Quality requires that two pupil/teacher ratios be calculated. The first ratio includes only the teachers who teach the grade and class on a full-time basis and excludes resource personnel. The second ratio includes resource personnel (e.g., reading resource teachers, instructional technology specialists, and gifted resource teachers). In order to calculate the ratios, the Office of Research and Evaluation used student membership as of December 1 to determine the number of students and classes at each school in a specific grade level. Additionally, the Office of Budget Development and the Department of Teaching and Learning provided the numbers of instructional staff to include in the resource calculation. To determine the pupil/teacher ratios for each school, student membership was divided by the number of general education classes taught (without resource) and with additional instructional resource positions (with resource). It is important to note that these pupil/teacher ratios may not reflect the situation in a given classroom, and pupil/teacher ratios in individual classrooms will vary. Instead, the pupil/teacher ratios represent an overall picture across all general education classrooms in a school.
